

Know what job you want to do? Type in a job title, such as “carpenter” or a word or two describing a career like “computer programming” and view the knowledges, skills, abilities, and other characteristics of the career that interests you most. (See back page for an example career report for electricians.)

Have an idea of what industry you want to work in? Look at careers grouped by industry, such as retail, manufacturing, or education, and see if you find the career you want!

Transitioning veterans can take advantage of additional partner websites.

The screenshot shows the homepage of the My Next Move for Veterans website. At the top, there's a navigation bar with icons for Home, Search, Industries, and Military. The main heading asks "What do you want to do for a living?" and offers three search paths: "I want to be a...", "I'll know it when I see it.", and "I liked my last job.". Each path leads to a search interface with a text input field and a search button. The "I liked my last job." path includes a dropdown menu for "Select a branch:". Below the search options, there are links for "Bright Outlook", "Interests", and "Job Prep". At the bottom, there's a section for "Need veterans' assistance?" with a link to "VETERANS.GOV".

Want to use your military training to find a civilian job? Select your branch of military service. Enter the military code or title and find matching civilian careers.

Three more ways to search careers:

Bright Outlook careers have lots of job openings now or will in the near future or are new and emerging.

Interest Browse lets you browse careers by six primary interest areas. Read a brief description of each interest and then explore related careers.

Job Prep groups together careers that need the same level of experience, education, and training.

Want to find a career based on your interests and education? Answer some questions about what you like to do using the O*NET Interest Profiler. You will get a list of careers matching your interests and education that you can explore.

My Next Move for Veterans (www.mynextmove.org/vets) is a website created by the National Center for O*NET Development for the U.S. Department of Labor, Employment and Training Administration for U.S. veterans who are current job seekers. The interactive tool helps vets learn about their career options. The site has tasks, skills, salary information, job listings, and more for over 900 different careers. Veterans can find careers through keyword search; by browsing industries that employ different types of workers; or by discovering civilian careers that are similar to their job in the military. Veterans can also take advantage of the O*NET Interest Profiler, a tool that offers personalized career suggestions based on a person’s interests and level of work experience.
